The Alliance for Advancing Leadership in Peace and Security

The international peace and security agenda continues to be shaped by flux and fluidity. Traditional and emerging issues interconnect. Multi-actor solutions are required.

Today's leaders must cultivate collaborative and advanced capabilities to lead across boundaries in complex environments.

— That's where we come in.

The Alliance for Advancing Leadership in Peace and Security serves leaders and decision-makers at all levels with opportunities to develop their leadership capacities to meet 21st century challenges.

“Maintaining security and stability and constantly building peace is complex and demanding. It requires co-operation at every level of society, from individuals on the ground, their communities and political and power holding elites. The Alliance will enable organisations to develop leadership skills to do that more successfully.” — Ambassador Christian Dussey, Director of GCSP (on the 2015 launch of the Alliance)

"The topics of the course [offered by the Alliance] were well thought after and very useful for professionals dealing with leadership. The presenters were very professional and their teaching technique was amazing. I have learned a lot from the course, which I will use for my leadership of a team; mediation and facilitation of peace processes." — Hailu Mamo, Deputy Head of Mission & Senior Advisor, Political Affairs Department, UNOG, 2016
